

RIVP1 10/4/67. CUCAMONGA CALIF. J.H. King, a prison guard armed only with a "walkie-talkie" but no gun, watches as a group of convicts from the Chino Correctional Institution for Men harvest grapes in a Cucamonga field. They are part of 400 prisoners over whom a controversy is raging between Calif. Gov. Reagan and AFOfL-CIO leader Thomas Pitts who claims the convict labor constitutes a state subsidy to growers.
